

SENATOR KNOX DIES SUDDENLY AT WASHINGTON

SENATOR PHILANDER C. KNOX THE VICTIM OF A STROKE---IS DEAD WITHIN A FEW MINUTES

Drops Unconscious On Stairway of His Washington Home While On Way Down To Dinner--Death Unexpected and Great Blow To Official Washington.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW MORNING

Washington, D. C., October 13.—President Harding, all high officials of the government and leaders in Congress will attend the funeral of Senator Philander C. Knox, which will be held here tomorrow morning. Burial will be near Senator Knox's home at Valley Forge, Pa.

Death Came Without Warning

Senator Philander Case Knox, Senator from Pennsylvania, is dead. Stricken by apoplexy at his home in Washington just before the dinner hour last evening, he collapsed and died in less than half an hour.

The shock of his death came with even greater force, as he had just returned last Monday from a vacation in England. He had told friends and colleagues in the Senate that he felt much rested and the vacation had done him good.

Stricken On Way To Dinner

He was stricken with paralysis after descending the stairway on his way to the dining room for dinner, and passed away fifteen minutes later without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Knox and the Senator's Secretary, W. F. Martin, were near the Senator and hurried to his aid. Dr. Samuel Adams was summoned immediately, but he found Mr. Knox beyond medical aid.

Notable Career

Senator Knox's career was among the most notable in American political history. He was the author of a resolution adopted by Congress this spring, bringing to end the technical state of war existing between the United States and Germany.

Cycle Of Three A Fateful Omen

The cycle of three has proved a fateful omen in the life of United States Senator Philander Chase Knox of Pennsylvania. Thrice a United States Senator and member of three cabinets under three presidents, he also has been three times a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

A daring statesman, brilliant international lawyer and ardent American Senator Knox has laughed at tradition and custom. Essentially a student of law and a thinker, fate has won him from retired places and placed him in the forefront of American life time and again.

Associated With Roosevelt

Long associated with former President Roosevelt, Senator Knox has absorbed progressive ideals and yet is characterized as one of the "old guard." Few men are better known internationally than Senator Knox. As Attorney general in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt and later secretary of state under President Taft and recently leader in the fight against the league of nations, he is as well known abroad as at home.

Born at Brownsville, Pa., May 6, 1853, a son of David Knox, obscure banker, Senator Knox first entered public life as assistant United States attorney in the Western District of Pennsylvania at the age of 23 years. He had studied at Mt. Union College, Alliance, O., graduating in 1872, where he first met President McKinley then prosecuting attorney in that county.

Appointed To Cabinet By McKinley

He was drawn from a rather obscure position in his home state to the cabinet of President McKinley in April, 1901. When the martyred president died, President Roosevelt continued him in office. He resigned, however, in June, 1904, to accept a seat in the United States Senate to fill the unexpired term of Matthew S. Quay, deceased.

Senator in 1904

His appointment by Governor Pennypacker was confirmed the following January by a unanimous vote of the Pennsylvania legislature for a full term of six years. President Taft, however, recalled him to the cabinet in 1909 as secretary of the Interior.

SENATE PAYS TRIBUTE TO SENATOR KNOX

Washington, D. C., October 13.—The Senate today paid sorrowful tribute to Senator Philander Chase Knox. As soon as the Senate met this morning Senator Penrose announced formally the death of his colleague and proposed a resolution providing for a committee of seventeen Senators to take charge of the funeral. The resolution was adopted and as a further mark of respect, the Senate adjourned until tomorrow.

POLITICAL BATTLE OVER SENATE SEAT IS NOW FORESEEN

Penrose and Sproul May Lock Horns Over Issue—Crow In On Deal.

Political Battle

Washington, Oct. 13.—A political battle that may make and mar political careers in Pennsylvania and in national affairs is in sight today over the senate seat made vacant by the sudden death here yesterday of Senator Philander Chase Knox, of Pennsylvania.

With a mixture of ordinary political callousness men began today to talk of Knox's successor.

Gov. Sproul Touted For Place

Governor Sproul, of Pennsylvania, whose ambitions are for the Senate, was expected to seize the opportunity offered to get a strong position for the nomination next year. It was forecast here that his resignation as governor would follow closely with his appointment to fill Knox's unexpired term. If he resigns he will be succeeded as governor by Lt. Gov. Beidelmann, who has ambitions for the governorship.

If Sproul is thus appointed by Beidelmann, he would certainly be a strong figure next year when the election for the full six year term in the Senate would occur.

Penrose May Horn In

Penrose may have something to say about this, however. Sproul's ascendancy in the state has already threatened his dwindling power and the "Czar" of Pennsylvania's politics may try to prevent the governor from coming to Washington at this time. Whether he could succeed or not is the question politicians here are asking. Sproul is strong and popular and if he resigned and let Lt. Gov. Beidelmann appoint him, Penrose could not do much about it. Western Pennsylvania May Have Something To Say About It.

The selection of Sen. Knox's successor will probably be made at a conference of Pennsylvania Republican leaders within a short time. Western Pennsylvania may insist it is entitled to name the successor as Senator Knox came from Pittsburgh. State Senator William Crow, of Uniontown, leader in the state senate and a friend of Sproul's may be put up for the post by Western Pennsylvania. Should he be appointed he will find himself in an office which friends say he had intended making a attempt to win at the next election.

There is added comment here on the fact that Sproul had declared of Knox, if he lived, he, the

Trouble Mars Smoothness Of Irish Peace Conference

Sinn Fein Demand For Prisoner Release Causes Hitch.

By ED. L. KEENE

(United Press Correspondent.) London, England, Oct. 13.—A flat demand from Sinn Fein for the release of all its interned prisoners threatened today the course of smooth negotiations before the Irish peace conference had hardly begun its work.

The optimistic atmosphere of Tuesday's opening session was swept away with the Sinn Fein demand, as the Sinn Fein delegates and the British cabinet members resumed their conference at noon today. The wildly excited crowd outside cheered the delegates as they drove up to the conference place, No. 10 Downing street.

Situation Is Serious

Two evidences that the situation was serious were: First, a lengthy and unexpected interview between Premier Lloyd George and King George. The premier is said to have informed His Majesty that the sudden turn taken by the negotiations necessitated a consultation with His Majesty.

Second, the session today was postponed from 11 o'clock until noon and the British Cabinet met in special session at the former hour.

After denying the Board had ordered the eviction, Lasker found the order came from Powers.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE CALLED TO MEET ANGLO-JAP RELATION CRISIS

County Commissioners Have Legal Petition For Tubercular Hospital Withdrawal Of List Now Sought

The last Legislature passed an act authorizing the erection by the County Commissioners of the different counties of a hospital or sanitarium for the treatment of tubercular patients of the county. The Act provided that upon the petition of one hundred citizens and taxpayers the County Commissioners of such county were required to issue a call for a special election at which the voters of the county would be given an opportunity to vote upon the proposition of the erection of such hospital or sanitarium.

In accordance with the terms of this act a petition containing the names of the required one hundred citizens was presented to the Clearfield County Commissioners asking that they provide for the holding of a special election to pass upon the question of a tuberculosis hospital for this county at the coming November election. The petition was circulated by a committee from the local chapter of the American Red Cross, but since its filing the friends of the movement believe the time is not opportune for such a proposition and are asking the committee in charge to withdraw the same at this time and take it up at a later date when the people have had opportunity to familiarize themselves with the matter and will be better able to pass intelligently on the same.

There is also a movement on foot among the people interested in several of the adjoining counties to go together and erect a joint tuberculosis hospital and this proposition will no doubt be given some attention in the coming months.

Decision Reached Suddenly When Canada Created Deadlock

By A. L. HEADFORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) (Copyright, 1921, United Press)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—In the far-reaching expanses of the Pacific and the Far East may be found the impelling cause that prompted President Harding to call the Washington Disarmament Conference.

To Washington, the world looked for the actual step to bring the powers into conference to discuss means of meeting the demand of peoples everywhere for relief from the burden of maintaining ever-growing war machines.

The conference was not specially planned by the Harding Administration when it came into office.

Conclusion Came Suddenly

The conclusion that the time was ripe came upon Hughes suddenly, with a culmination of world events, which threw the question up to the United States. A decision to call the conference forthwith was reached and executed swiftly by Harding and Hughes that same day, July 6th.

The situation in which the two greatest nations of the world—the United States and Great Britain—found themselves last July, can be summed up briefly as follows:

These two leading powers, bound by natural ties of race, color and speech, were at the crossroads. It was obvious that the plans of the far-away empire of Japan were running counter to the principles and policies of the United States in the Pacific and the Far East. Was Great Britain, for reasons of political and commercial expediency, to continue this situation, and undoubtedly thereby, aggravate it by pledging herself in alliance with Japan, and so aligning herself indirectly against the United States in this dangerous situation?

So, the crux of the situation which has resulted in the forthcoming Washington conference, narrowed down from the broad description of "the Pacific and the Far East," was Japan.

Canada Holds Firm

The Imperial conference of British Dominion Premiers was meeting in London with the heads of the home government the latter part of June and in the early days of last July. And while there was never any public, confidential, direct or indirect statement to this effect by any administration spokesman, every well-informed newspaper correspondent in Washington knew that the United States was in the background.

Giants Take Final Game Of World Series 1 To 0

Yanks Battle Hard To Run Series Into An Extra Game But Giants Prove Too Much For Them and Win the Pennant.

Muggsy McGraw and his New York Giants finished the 1921 World Series in a blaze of glory by winning the eighth and deciding game by a 1 to 0 score. The series ended with 5 wins for the Giants and 3 for the American League champs.

The deciding game was the most exciting of the series and held the crowd of 30,000 fans breathless until the finish.

Artie Nehf, McGraw's ace, who lost two heart-breaking contests, was the chief actor in the National League's victory in today's contest. For once luck was with him and he copped in the most important game of the series.

Hoyt, Manager Huggins's school boy wonder, and the real hero of the series, pitched good enough ball to win his third game of the series, but luck was against him and Peck's error on a hard chance alone beat him.

First Inning
Burnes opened for the Giants by going out third to first. Bancroft was given a base on four wide ones. Frisch out on a foul fly to Pipp. Young walked. Kelley hit to short, who allowed the ball to go through, Bancroft scoring and Young landing on third. E. Meusel out, pitcher to first. One run, no hits, one error.

Fewster first up for the Yanks fell victim to Nehf's curves and fanned. Peckinpough was given first on four wide ones. Miller singled to right, Peck stopping at second. R. Meusel out on a pop fly to first. Pipp struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning
Rawlings started the second by doubling along the left field foul line. Snyder went out on a sacrifice, pitcher to first, while Rawlings advanced to first. Nehf hit to short and Peck caught Rawlings at the plate. Burns singled to short left. Bancroft went out short to first. No runs, two hits no errors.

Ward went n a foul fly to catcher. Baker hit to Rawlings and was thrown out at first. Schang out short to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning
Frisch went out on a fly to centre. Young waited and Hoyt passed him on four wide ones. Kelley was out on a pop fly to short. E. Meusel fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors. Young stole second while Meusel was batting.

Pitcher Hoyt opened the third for the Yanks by going out from third to first. Fewster walked. Peckinpough grounded to short, forcing Fewster at second and was doubled at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING
Rawlings cracked out his second double opening the fourth. Snyder sacrificed Rawlings to third. Nehf went out on a fly to short right. Rawlings being held on third. Burns lost a chance to drive in a run by striking out.

Miller went out third to first on a great play by Frisch. R. Meusel was out on a fly to deep centre. "n singled to left. Ward sent a single into centre, but Pipp was held on second. Baker walked, filling the bases. Schang ended the agony by flying out to centre. No runs, two hits no errors.

Fifth Inning
Bancroft went out on a fly to left. Frisch out second to first. Young singled to centre. Kelley fanned for the third out. No runs, one hit and no errors.

Hoyt was out on a foul fly to Kelley. Fewster also went out by the same route. Peck was given a base on balls. Miller hit to third, forcing Peck at second. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning
E. Meusel opened the sixth with a single. Rawlings up. Meusel out trying to steal second. Rawlings then singled to right. Snyder went out on strikes. Nehf out on a foul fly to third. No runs, two hits, no errors.

R. Meusel went out on a line drive to second. Pipp was out short to first. Ward went out short to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning
Burns opened the seventh by drawing a pass. Bancroft, struck out. Frisch was out on a fly to right. Young flied out to left. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Baker went out on a foul fly to third. Schang was out on a fly to left. Hoyt hit a single to center. Fewster hit to second, forcing Hoyt unassisted. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning
Kelly struck out, to open the eighth. E. Meusel went out at first, unassisted. Rawlings was out second to first. No runs, no hits no errors. Peckinpough was out second to first. Miller flied out to center. R. Meusel fanned for third out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

States government was utterly, opposed to a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, the principal question up for discussion in the Imperial conference.

When the Prime Ministers of the British Dominions went to London for the Imperial conference, Premier Meighen, of Canada, announced in no uncertain terms that Canada was opposed to a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, and that in this question, Canada's interest lay with those of the United States.

Far East Premier Fails To Shake
Premier Hughes, of Australia, seemed to favor the Alliance, while Premier Massey, of New Zealand, apparently was wavering between opposition to the Alliance and favoring it. Premier Meighen remained adamant in his opposition to the Alliance. He served notice on the British government that if the Alliance were renewed, he would take the question before the Canadian Parliament. For a Dominion to pass on a high question of Imperial British foreign policy was unheard of, it bordered almost on a declaration of independence and the statesmen of the British government, were thrown into a fright.

The interests of the Pacific Dominions were in common with those of the United States in the Pacific and Far Eastern situation. As an example, did they not bay Japanese immigration from their shores as did the United States, with even more rigid restrictions?

There is no doubt that high officials of this government were privately gratified at this attitude of the Dominion Premiers, and there is also no doubt that this government, not officially, but in fact, was looking to the Dominion Premiers in London to save the situation. The following bit of significant and hitherto unpublished information shows the trend of the American government's opinion in the days just preceding the calling of the Washington conference:

Battle Fleet Question
The question of creating a main battleship fleet in the Pacific, by concentrating either all or the most powerful of the American battleships on the west coast, was up for decision by President Harding and his Cabinet. Discussing this question with the writer one day, a high official of the government said, in substance:

"I am strongly in favor of this move. It wouldn't be a step directed against Japan, but the question is simply one of insuring one's own house. Anyway, we are looking to the Dominion Premiers in London to protect our interests."

Because of the delicate diplomatic situation, this question is understood to have been passed upon by Secretary Hughes, and the Navy Department's plans are believed to have been moderated, so that only the newest and most powerful of the American dreadnaughts, the oil-burning types, were sent out to the Pacific Coast, to replace the older battleships. But, in effect, a main battleship fleet was regarded here as having been created in the Pacific.

During the meeting of the Imperial conference in London, Secretary Hughes is understood to have made plain to Great Britain, through his conversations here with British Ambassador Geddes and in similar conversations which Ambassador Harvey, acting on instructions from Washington, had in London with leaders of the British government, the feeling of opposition in this country to the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

Alliance Continued
Meanwhile, the British government had ruled that the Alliance, in accordance with its terms, was to continue automatically for another year, but there was no decision on its continuance for a future term of years.

Ambassador Harvey had been privately "feeling out" the British government and representatives of other powers on the disarmament question, and soon after the Pacific and Far Eastern situation was being anxiously discussed. The two questions seemed to dovetail into the present conference to be held here on these two great problems.

Later, Lord Curzon, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, conferred with Ambassador Harvey and, recognizing the dilemma of his government, is understood to have declared that Great Britain was ready to have a frank discussion of these questions with the United States. Harvey reported to Secretary Hughes that Great Britain was ready for a conference.

Announcement On July 9th
Hughes is understood to have received that cable on the morning of Saturday, July 9th. Shortly after, he went to the White House with Harvey's dispatch. The decision to call the conference was reached in an hour's conference with President Harding. Hughes came away and sent his communications to the powers, stating the President was prepared to call a conference on limitation of armament and Pacific and Far Eastern problems, and asking if they would accept a formal invitation. The announcement to the press was made the next day.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

"By Skinny"

Reaction in most unexpected places has begun to set in regarding the merits of Andy Volstead's enforcement act and many people heretofore classed as "decidedly wet" are beginning to sit up and take notice that it is the duty of all good citizens to rally behind the Prohibition enforcement officers and give the dry law the support and encouragement it deserves. The time is here now when the friends and not the foes of the law should be named as enforcement officers. The Volstead act is the law of the land and demands the same respect all other laws get. With real Prohibition enforcement officers on the job, men who believe in the principle of the thing, in six short months will see this nation cleaned up on the rum question. We have "wet" dry enforcers long enough; let us have a few "drys" on the job and see the difference and the advantage to all.

The Federal Department of Agriculture says fruit and vegetable prices will reach their lowest level of the year this month. During the first week of October 10,000,000 car loads of potatoes alone were shipped from grower to dealers. They are now selling for $1.00 per hundred pounds in the potato producing country and for $1.80 in the cities.

This will probably turn several million telephone girls green with envy, but the truth must be told. There are approximately 16,500,000 sticks of chewing gum in France, in perfectly good condition, which nobody wants to chew.

The gum has been the biggest problem the French Government has had to handle since the armistice. Even the Upper Silesia, the Fiume, the Yap, the Dantzig and the Russian problems have one by one faded into utter insignificance beside the burning question how to sell that chewing gum when the French won't chew?

The highhanded methods employed by British shipping interests to exclude American vessels from the Canadian cotton carrying trade are to be combatted with a slashing reduction in rates. Result a big rate war is about to start with our Shipping Board ready to cut "to the bone." There is a movement on foot in Congress to revise the Panama Canal tolls and excluding American vessels from paying toll for the use of the Canal. Johnny Bull says "ell henter protest hif we do."

MIKE McNALLY OUT OF WORLD'S SERIES

New York, Oct. 13.—Mike McNally, the star third baseman of the Yankees, informed the United Press early today that his physician has ruled him out of the game during the remainder of the World's Series because of his injured shoulder.

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WERE NO DOCTORS!

The Doctor Was Not Much Needed Until Folks Began to Break Nature's Laws.

Doctors Preach Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Ninety per cent of all disease is preventable, so doctors say. Eat simple food, exercise wisely, sleep sufficiently, and what is vitally important—make sure of the daily, regular, thorough elimination of body waste, and the chances are nine to one that you will keep well, work efficiently and enjoy life. Bowel elimination of food and tissue waste is all-important. But in case of irregularity, disordered or imperfect action do not make the common mistake of taking harsh, violently acting medicines, with the idea of forcing the bowels to act. Nature believes in mild methods. She responds best to persuasion.

So in selecting a simple remedy to regulate and assure proper bowel action, you should not use harsh or violently acting remedies, no matter how much has been claimed for them. You should choose some well-known, time tested, trial proven remedy, that has made its reputation by being used for many years, by all sorts of people, all over the world. Take Beecham's Pills for example. Beecham's is a household word, has been for many generations. Beecham's Pills is a household remedy has been for over half a century. People not only take Beecham's but recommend Beecham's to their friends. Their use is handed down from father to son or from mother to daughter, from one generation to another. Did you ever hear any complaint or criticism of Beecham's? Isn't that a pretty powerful endorsement of their excellent Druggists are glad to sell Beecham's.

October Establishes a New Standard Of Notions

NEW WRAPS ARE WHOLLY DESIRABLE

In these graceful, straight-hanging Wraps for Winter, there is a new quality of exquisite drapableness and pliability for which the soft pile fabrics are accountable. The lavish use of furs gives an unwanted sumptuous tone and makes these luxurious models as becoming as they are lovely. Wide sleeves and extra deep collars add to their comfort. The Coats and Wraps are priced from $15.00 to $85.00

NEW FURS HAVE AN IRRESISTIBLE LURE

and never were Furs more worth the wearing than these. Our fur buyers succeeded in getting a wonderful selection of peltries in all shapes and grades. We recommend the buying of Furs this Fall as the prices are far below normal and we look for a slight increase in prices of Furs as the times get better.

The praiseworthy impulse of thinking home maker for months past has been to confine their buying to bare necessities. The time of disproportionate values is past. The October values, available throughout the Store, are shining examples of the old, worthwhile, money-saving standards. To delay your buying further, will mean only disadvantage to you, and hardship for workers in factories and plants the world over.

Our Stock of Winter Suits Offers Opportunity For Great Latitude in Choice

KNOX'S SUCCESSOR

In case of the death of a United States Senator the Governor is empowered to immediately appoint a successor to the deceased Senator, which appointee will serve until the people elect a person to fill the vacancy.

Therefore Governor William C. Sproul will be called upon to appoint immediately a successor to fill out Senator Knox's unexpired term. Then at the November election in 1922 (when Senator Knox's successor would have been chosen regularly) a United States Senator for Pennsylvania will be elected for the full term of six years, and a Senator for the short term, or from the November election until the six year man qualifies on March 4th, 1923, will also be chosen by vote of the people. In other words, the voters of Pennsylvania will have the opportunity of voting for two United States Senators at the November election in 1922, although one and the same man could be the candidate for both the short and the long term.

FOR BETTER MAIL DELIVERY

The letter from Postmaster Tobias in this issue should be read by every citizen and when the day rolls around for the carriers to make their report, there should not be one house in the city without a number on it. Those of you who are readers of The Progress or any other newspaper that is delivered by carrier have a double interest in this matter. Here is where it affects you: A new carrier either mail or newspaper, goes on your route. He is told to deliver a paper to John Jones, but John Jones has no number on his house and the carrier does not know where he lives. He asks several people on your street but cannot find you. Number your houses by all means. It will bring you your mail much sooner. Let us co-operate with the postmaster in this matter and the carriers will certainly appreciate it and be able to make their rounds much sooner.

LEDOUX'S JOB BUBBLE

Urban Ledoux, self-styled "champion of the unemployed," who held the unsuccessful labor auction in Boston and later led his jobless followers to Washington to picket the unemployment conference, has been deserted by a good share of his flock. His methods did not work.

The men found that they were gaining a little cheap notoriety, and that was all; so, led by Bud Taylor, doughboy and hard-headed citizen, about half of Ledoux's cohorts started for the railroad station to do some more old-fashioned job hunting wherever jobs are likely to be found.

Ledoux and his followers were not the only ones to believe that there was some way out of the industrial tangle other than the regular road of readjustment, same methods and hard common sense. The same error has permeated all classes of industry and business and has included those who employ in as large a proportion as those who are employed.

The sooner all men, employers and employees alike, follow the example of Bud Taylor and his mates and turn back to practical methods for establishing and finding jobs, the sooner there will be jobs for everybody.

President Harding has taken a wise course in declaring against total and complete disarmament at this time. There is nothing to justify such a course for such action and the only reason that could be offered is that of the sentimental idealist who mistakenly believes that all the peoples of the world are ready to live in peace and "turn the other cheek."

Early in the course of the disarmament discussion The Progress published an editorial in which it gave about the same views as those expressed by Mr. Harding. This is not an argument against disarmament but rather a warning to go slow on a dangerous path.

There is a probability that the stand taken by Mr. Harding will be a factor in eventually bringing about disarmament as it will serve notice on the other big powers that the United States will keep with them in any direction and with the tremendous resources of this Nation they will readily see the futility of trying to keep ahead of us and in time will beg for reduction of armament.

POSTMASTER URGES MAIL BOXES AND HOUSE NUMBERS

Begins Campaign To Better Mail Delivery In Clearfield.

Clearfield, Pa., Oct. 13, 1921
To the Patrons of the Clearfield Pa.,
Post office.

On Oct. 19, 1921, the postmaster will require the mail carriers to report the address of every dwelling and place of business on their routes that do not have mail receptacles or their place properly numbered. The department finds this action necessary owing to the great number of residences and business places that do not have mail receptacles on their places numbered.

If expeditious and efficient city delivery service is to be accorded it is essential that all buildings to which mail is delivered be properly numbered and equipped with private receptacles.

Without house numbers carriers are delayed in serving the routes and errors in delivery unavoidably occur, especially when substitutes are on duty. This condition coupled with the lack of mail receptacles, inevitably impairs efficiency and delays delivery with a resultant public inconvenience and loss.

To correct this evil it has been decided to conduct a campaign with a view to having every residence and business place properly numbered and equipped with a proper receptacle or opening in the door, also that residents' offices and business places on the second floor shall have private mail boxes placed conveniently at the head of the stairs, same boxes to have the name of the patron plainly printed thereon.

House numbers enable the mail carrier to locate promptly buildings to which mail is addressed, and avoid errors and delays in the delivery of the mail.

Mail receptacles insure safe and prompt delivery of mail, avoid delay of mails through return to office, obviate the necessity of patrons responding to the door bell at inconvenient moments. Expedite the service in general and permits more deliveries, especially to patrons living near the end of the route. The practice of placing mail in vestibules under doors, on window sills, etc., is hazardous, and frequently results in the loss of highly valuable or important mail.

It is therefore to the advantage of every patron of this office to see that the instructions outlined in this article are carried out because the failure of the few in matters of this magnitude very often impairs the service of the many, we therefore solicit the co-operation of the City Council, the Rotary Club, the Commercial Club and all citizens in general to help the postal authorities in placing a number and mail receptacle in every place of business and every residence in the city of Clearfield, Pa. You can get the mail boxes and numbers at any of the hardware stores in the city. They do not cost much and will mean much to the efficiency of the mail delivery.

Clearfield is entitled to the best mail service and we can have it by your co-operation. Would it be asking too much to have you read this article at the next meeting of your organization and ask your members to boost the slogan, "a number on every building, a mail receptacle for every patron."

Sincerely and very truly yours,
Postmaster
W. E. TOBIAS

P. S. Before placing mail box or number, please consult your mail carrier.

Steel-Head Trout.
The steel-head trout is classed as a salmon by fishermen and the fishing trade, and it is said that it was given the name "steel-head" because of the hardness of its skull. Fishermen tell that it often requires several blows from a club to kill this fish when captured and taken into a boat.

MILK

THE THIRD STEP IN PASTEURIZATION

The milk is kept at a temperature of about 130 to 160 degrees for half an hour and then is chilled.

This chilling process is accomplished by passing the milk over a series of pipes through which is running a cooling brine lowering the temperature of the milk to about "freezing." Passing over these pipes the minute atoms of milk are separated and come into contact with the pure air which thoroughly cools every small particle of the milk.

Another proof that Clearfield milk comes to your table as pure, if not purer, than any other article of food you eat.

SEN. KNOX DIES

retary of state. He served the full Taft term.

Senator Knox was the first secretary of state to act as a special ambassador to a foreign power when President Taft selected him to represent the United States at the funeral of Emperor Mutsuhito of Japan. Retiring after this office to his private law practice, he was re-elected by popular vote to the Senate in November, 1916, succeeding George T. Oliver.

His resolution shortly after the armistice to divorce the covenant from the peace treaty started a storm in the Senate. His resolution for a separate peace with Germany also created a furor.

The "boom" for Senator Knox for the presidency was launched on Geo-orge Washington's birthday at the American club banquet in Pittsburgh. But the tide of three was evident when Senator Knox's name was presented to the Republican convention. It was the third time. In 1908, he received 8 votes on the first ballot and held his strength until he swung his support to one of the other candidates. Four years later he was in private life but in 1916, he returned to the limelight.

Again In The Limelight

He went to the convention, which nominated Justice Hughes, as a "favorite son" from Pennsylvania. He had defeated the then Governor Brumbaugh for this honor. The state's 36 delegates voted for him solidly until he pledged support to the justice.

Senator Knox has gained an international reputation for his knowledge of law. Representing big business interests in the court of Pennsylvania, he gained an intimate knowledge of their operation. He fought many remarkable cases before state courts and the United States Supreme Court.

His early training as a corporation lawyer served him in good stead when acting as attorney general in the cabinet of President Roosevelt.

Contrary to predictions by political opponents that he would serve "big business," the senator quite oppositely led the attack on trusts under Roosevelt's administration.

With the president's approval and co-operation, he launched long legal battles under the Sherman anti-trust law which until that time had been a dead issue in the law books. He obtained a number of convictions and dissolved more than one combination. Later years have seen the results of his initial fights using the law.

Defended Them

The Senator also came into the limelight in 1914 when he represented Harry K. Thaw in the latter's fight before the United States Supreme Court to prevent his extradition from New Hampshire after his escape from Mattewan.

Senator Knox was in his sixty-ninth year, was married and had three children. He maintained homes in Washington, Pittsburgh and at Valley Forge. The latter country place is an estate on the site of camp grounds used by Washington's army in that memorial campaign.

The senator's great-grand father, by the way, was a general in Washington's army and camped on the spot now occupied by his home.

Sen. Knox was a member of numerous clubs in New York, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. He also held honorary degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, Washington and Jefferson University, Yale, Villanova and Guatemala.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little, olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They clear "clouded brain" and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

governor, would exert all his efforts to remove any opposition to his reelection. The question now is "How much has his attitude changed in relation to Sen. Crow."

It is regarded here that the effect of the governor's being appointed will have a bearing on next year's contest, one thing all observers agree is that Gov. Sprout will take time for full consideration before he announces the appointee.

Sprout Denies Rumor
Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—While out of deference to the memory of the late Senator Philander C. Knox there was no open discussion among state officials concerning his successor. It was felt certain, however, that Gov. Sprout will appoint State Senator Crow, of Fayette county and Republican State Chairman.

Beggars in Constantinople.
And then the beggars! They are at every turn in Constantinople. For the most part, they are Armenians. They follow a person for great distances, whining and crying. Some of them carry deformed babies, probably rented, as it seems unlikely that every beggar could have a deformed child. Many make their children lie in the street on wet pavements and pretend to be asleep to excite the pity of the passerby and thus secure alms.

Where the Laundry-Wagon Calls

Regularly the Doctor

Comes Seldom

In figuring up washday expense there is an item rightly chargeable which many women overlook.

That item is doctors bills—of all causes that bring complications to women at this season of the year there are none so potent as washday in the home.

Think it over for a moment—first, the heavy work; then the moist air, damp cellar and wet feet; finally the running in and out from a warm, steamy house, to a cool outdoors. Is it a wise risk to take a fair price to pay?

The beauty of this service of ours is that we take out of the home everything that pertains to washday. You simply call us, and in no time at all your washing is back as sweetly clean and finely finished as if you had laundered it yourself.

As for the cost, you will find it truly moderate. Call us and see.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE

A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treat me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter." —Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary Lister of Adrian, Mich., adds her testimony to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to carry women safely through the Change of Life. She says:

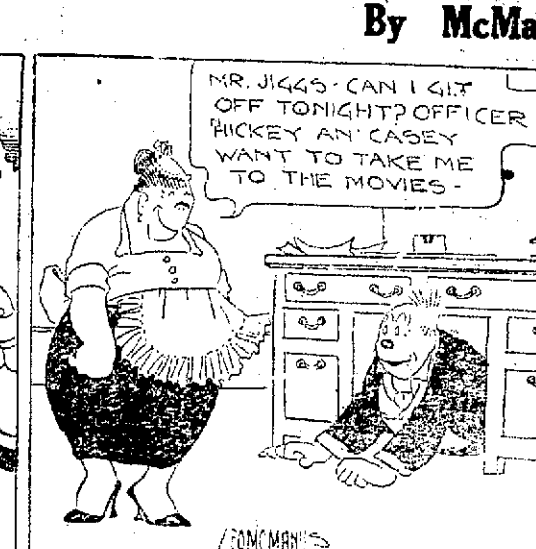

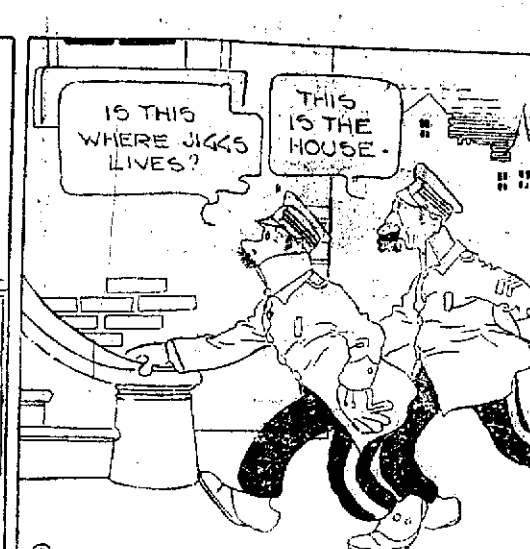

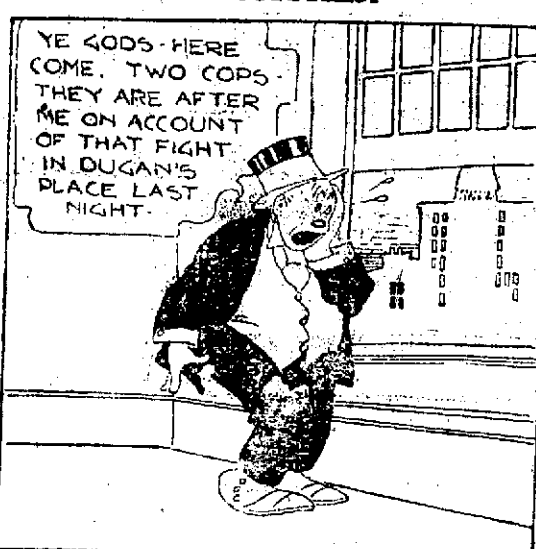

"It is with pleasure that I write to you thanking you for what your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet and other annoying symptoms. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me, so I got more. It cured me and I am now doing my housework. Your medicine is certainly my friend and you may use this testimonial as you choose." —Mrs. MARY LISTER, 608 Frank Street, Adrian, Mich.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand passes through this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying symptoms. Those smothering spells, the dreadful hot flashes that send the blood rushing to the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, those sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts in such a manner as to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents serious troubles.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.
